

Van Gough – the Golden Years

Wednesday, 24th November 2021 at 10.30 on Zoom

Keith Appleby makes a welcome return to TVN, this time to look at the last two years of Van Gough's life, a period when he was at his most creative and his canvasses were alive with colour. It is in this short period of time when he produced many of the paintings for which he is most famous. Keith will be exploring both the work and the life events that shaped the canvasses Van Gough produced, in what were arguably the most tempestuous years of his relatively short life.
